

Ostrich Eggs general instructions

Day 1 · Session 1 · Shared handout · Negotiation: five minutes

Purpose

To illustrate how bargaining can occur at any time, in any place.

Set-up

You are sitting on an aeroplane next to your negotiating counterpart. The aircraft will land in five minutes. Keep all your role information private and confidential. Do not show your written instructions to anyone.

Success means achieving exactly what your brief tells you to achieve. Do the best you can to get what you need from this negotiation. Play your role accurately and stay in role, even though your counterpart is a fellow participant. Do not invent facts that are not in your brief.

The facilitator will give a five-minute landing warning. You have five minutes to negotiate. If you reach an agreement, write it down. Record who you negotiated with and the outcome, including if you did not reach an agreement.

Fold your outcome card and hand it to the facilitator before coffee. Do not discuss your negotiation or agreement with other participants. We return to the outcomes at the Tuesday bargaining debrief.
