

Extracting Needs: Round 2 speaker

Day 3 · Session 4 | Higher education | Assigned-role brief

YOUR ROLE: Round 2 speaker

FICTIONAL TRAINING EXERCISE. Use only your assigned role. A role label separates downloads for the exercise; files on this public website are accessible to anyone with the link.

ROUND 2 — ROLE A CONFIDENTIAL BRIEF (Higher Education)

You are a lecturer union representative at a university with a satellite teaching campus reached by a rural road. Your stated position: "We want a fixed per-diem for satellite campus teaching, regardless of distance, no exceptions."

Your hidden real need — do not volunteer this unprompted: Money is not actually the primary concern. Several lecturers have raised safety concerns about driving the satellite-campus road after dark, particularly during the rainy season, and the university has no official transport or driver for evening classes. A fixed per-diem was the union's fallback demand after an earlier request for official transport was ignored — what you actually want is a safe, reliable way to travel, with the allowance as, at most, a secondary concern.

How to play it: State your position once, clearly. If pushed only on the amount, stay close to the stated position. If asked genuinely curious questions about the conditions of travel or why a fixed rate matters regardless of distance, gradually reveal the safety concern and the earlier ignored transport request.
