

Sector simulations: shared instructions

Day 4 · Session 4 | Both sectors | Shared resource

FICTIONAL TRAINING EXERCISE. Use only your assigned role. A role label separates downloads for the exercise; files on this public website are accessible to anyone with the link.

These are FICTIONAL COMPOSITE training scenarios. All institution labels, disputes, mandates and figures in the exercise are invented for learning; they do not describe an actual institution or current Kenyan dispute.

How the Simulation Works

The shape of the session	Detail
Rooms	Two parallel breakout rooms. Public health in Plenary A, higher education in Plenary B.
Teams	Within each sector: a worker-side team and an employer-side team.
Time	Five minutes to huddle, 50 minutes to negotiate, then write up what you agreed.
Openings	Each side gives an uninterrupted opening statement of no more than three minutes.
Caucus	Either side may call one short caucus. Use it rather than fracturing visibly.
Confidentiality	What is said in role stays in the room. Roles were assigned, not chosen.

Your mandate is what your brief says — not what you personally believe is fair. Some of you are arguing the side you do not occupy at work. That is deliberate, and it is where most of the learning is.

Before a Real Agreement

Exercise mandates do not override law. Confirm the actual employer, bargaining authority, SRC advice where applicable, lawful appropriation, approvals, implementation responsibilities and any required registration. A no-agreement outcome must be evaluated against the parties' alternatives; it is not automatically lose-lose.
