

Extracting Needs

Shared instructions and extraction notes | Day 3 Session 4

Work in pairs. Role A is the speaker; Role B is the extractor. Both sectors use both rounds.

Round 1 - up to eight minutes: The first speaker opens only the separate Round 1 Public health brief. The extractor reads the instructions below.

Then swap roles. Round 2 - up to eight minutes: The second speaker opens only the separate Round 2 Higher education brief. The new extractor uses the same instructions below.

Do not read a future speaker brief before it is your turn. Keep the speaker handouts private. The two scenarios, names, institutions and figures are fictional.

Extractor instructions for both rounds

Your partner will state a position once. From that point, your only tool is open questions - no arguing, no proposing solutions, no stating your own view.

Your goal: Identify the real underlying need behind your partner's stated position, through skilful, genuinely curious questioning alone.

What to avoid: Leading questions that supply the answer; arguing with the position; proposing a solution before the need is genuinely surfaced.

Useful question starters: "Help me understand why..." · "What would it mean for you if..." · "What's the concern behind..." · "What would need to be true for..."

When to stop: When you believe you have genuinely identified the real need - or when time is called.

Extraction notes

As the extractor, write down what you believe the real underlying need is before comparing notes with your partner.

Prompt	Your notes
Round 1 - what I believe the real need is
Round 1 - which question actually opened things up
Round 2 - what I believe the real need is
Round 2 - which question actually opened things up	