

Public Health Employer Confidential Brief

Day 4 Session 4 | Plenary A | Employer team

Fictional training exercise. All institutions, disputes, mandates and figures are invented for learning.

Read only this handout and your sector's shared facts. Keep this brief within your assigned team.

If they raise rostering: Four weeks' notice of the roster costs you nothing in cash and is within your authority to grant. A funded relief pool for maternity and long-term sick cover would be about KSh 14 million a year. Neither is in your mandate; neither is excluded from it.

Do not read: the separate worker-side download.

Your mandate: Reach an agreement that does not commit more than KSh 60 million in the current financial year. You may commit to future years, but only with a stated condition on revenue performance.

Your walk-away: You may not sign anything that commits the full arrears in one financial year. Your own finance department has told you this is not deliverable.

What you know that they may not: A donor-funded programme closed last year leaving a balance of about KSh 70 million. Its donor conditions and legal availability have not yet been checked. Your finance team hopes it may support the programme close-out, subject to those conditions. It cannot be treated as an unrestricted wage fund without verification and all required approvals.

Your pressure: The Controller's office has queried the county's wage-bill ratio. A large new recurrent commitment would be visible and difficult to defend.

What you could offer: A dated schedule with revenue-contingent triggers. A first arrears instalment this year within your limit. Non-cash elements: a written implementation committee with union representation, quarterly reporting, or backdating recognition without immediate payment.

What you cannot offer: A commitment that ignores the ceiling entirely, or an unconditional full-arrears settlement this year.

Quietly: You accept the entitlement is valid. Your problem is timing and visibility, not principle. Saying that out loud early may build trust - or may be read as an admission that removes your leverage. That is your judgement to make.
